

Carl is a geologist with fifteen years of experience in early to advanced-stage exploration, structural analysis, and evaluation of mineral deposits and complex tectonic environments. His focus has been on greenstone-hosted gold within Canada and internationally, with emphasis on technical rigor, big picture evaluation, and identifying and extracting relevant details to build understandings of mineral deposits, and exploration and mining opportunities.

He has worked for junior, intermediate, and major mining companies, consultancies, and government. He holds a BSc in Geology from McGill University, a MSc in Structural Geology from Queen's university, and is a registered P.Ge. in Ontario.

He has called Thunder Bay home since 2020 and is proud to be a member of the local exploration and mining community.
